ENGINEER TELLS OF OBSTACLES

Department Will Let Contracts For Approach

Absolutely no halt in the building program of Koss Construction Co., builders of the Tennessee River bridge, was forecast today by W. M. Hinds, construction chief, on his return from Montgomery where he had accompanied Murray W. Koss in a business parley with the highway department.

Mr. Hinds pointed to high waters as the only possible obstacle to the construction program of his company. Mr. Koss did not return with Mr. Hinds, but continued to Cuba where the company has placed operation base for shipments into Peru, the company having made construction contracts in that country.

Mr. Hinds declared that the state highway department is planning to let the contracts for approaches of the giant bridge structure so soon as funds are available. He added that highway officials are considerably concerned over completion of the structure here and that they desire completion as soon as is possible.

The construction chief declared that the company at present is employing only 40 men on the project, high waters again causing a let-up in operations. The company has been hampered by high water since November 18 and progress has been slow for that reason. The Koss company has completed work on the piers upon which the bascule span will rest, thus allowing the Mt. Vernon bridge company to continue operations in spite of high waters.

The engineer stated today that his crew will be placed at full strength so soon as river conditions improve sufficiently to allow the company to proceed with its work.

Mr. Hinds emphatically denied any rumor to the effect that his company and the state highway department were in controversy.

LITA, TECHNICALLY BROKE, IS PENNYLESS IN HER MANSION

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 18.—(AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin today went on living technically penniless in the 40-room Chaplin mansion in Beverly Hills, with no immediate prospect of collecting temporary alimony from her actor husband as the result of a series of adverse rulings by the appellate court in her divorce litigation.

A series of decisions handed down by the district court of appeals yesterday disposed of four appeals made by Charley Chaplin's attorneys from superior court action in the case.

The court ruled the superior court had exceeded its jurisdiction in awarding $4,000 a month temporary alimony to Mrs. Chaplin without serving legal notice on her husband in the proceedings. The appellate order restrained the receivers in charge of Chaplin's property here from paying the alimony.

She won, however, in the denial of three other petitions for writs of prohibition asked by her husband's attorneys, striking at the receivership and at restraining orders placed by the superior court on the handling of the comedian's affairs by Al Reeves, his business manager.

Cullman County
Gets Health Unit

Cullman county has joined the ranks of the progressive North Alabama counties who are waging organized fight on disease. Announcement is made that the Cullman commissioners have decided to establish a health unit on March first.

The Cullman Tribune has the following to say:

"Cullman county is now assured of an all-time health unit beginning on March 1st, as the board of county commissioners, composed of Judge S. J. Griffin, ex-officio chairman and secretary, B. M. Nash, J. K. Turner, W. S. Jones and R. A. Davenport, met in regular session Monday and among the first business was the unanimous vote cast for the inauguration of an all-time health unit in Cullman county. To attempt to mention the benefit to be derived from an all-time health unit we shall not attempt to say this time, but will say, we feel the county commissioners have never before in the history made a more commendable appropriation or one that will be of more benefit to the general health of the citizenship, for truly good health is worth more than dollars and cents, and with the hearty cooperation of the people throughout the county, the physician and nurse, who will be under the direction of the state health department, will be able to do a wonderful work in way of administering to the sick and needy of the county as well as in aiding the people to keep healthy and work in the epidemic of diseases and prevent their spread.

The commissioners appropriated $5,000 out of the general fund of the county for the maintenance of the health unit, the money to be paid out one-twelfth of the amount each month.

Husband Claims That
His Wife Drowned
In Shoal Creek

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn., Feb. 18.—(AP)—The viscera from the body of Mrs. J. A. Woodward, secret bride of two weeks, whose husband is charged with murder at Florence, Ala., in connection with her death has been sent to Nashville for chemical analysis to determine whether there were traces of poison.

Woodward, a school teacher at Helena, Ala., is under bond to answer the charge. The body was exhumed here under the direction of three physicians.

The exhumation is a move on the state to prove its theory that the young woman was murdered by her husband, who drove his automobile off the road into Shoal Creek, near Florence, where the body was found. The husband claimed the wreck an accident and that death was caused by drowning.

The state has produced witnesses to say that the lungs of the body contained no water and physicians testified that no signs of violence were discovered.

Decatur Broker
Talks Of Cotton

The following letter, written by R. G. Cortner, well known local cotton broker, to E. C. Kinney, of Cullman indicates interest being taken in growing a better grade of cotton in North Alabama this year. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: I am pleased to commend the action on your part of trying to eliminate the half and half variety of cotton in your county, and if you can have even a partial success it will put Cullman county cotton on the map to its old standard and form; for as you know where our firm has usually handled from 10,000 to 15,000 bales each season, we have not been able to handle one single bale from your market on account of short staple.

A variety of seed, storm-proof, Acala, and as Morgan county has given extensively of this variety, seed can be had from various farmers at Decatur at a much less cost than Oklahoma seed. This variety is a plump 15-16 to 1 inch, storm-proof; and to my own knowledge 31 bales was the yield on 30 acres, counting bales at 500 pounds each. This crop referred to being raised on Sand Mountain near Hartselle, Ala.

With best wishes and trusting that you will keep the good work up, and get your farmers to raise cotton instead of half-and-half which causes shippers rejections and losses on your shipments.

SCHOOL ELECTION
SET FOR MARCH 21
BY DECATUR BOARD

People Are To Decide
Fate Of $50,000
Bond Issue

POLLS PLACES
DESIGNATED

Voters of the Greater
City Will Cast
Their Ballots

Citizens of greater Decatur will ballot on March 21 on the proposal to issue bonds in the sum of $50,000 for improvement of present school buildings and for construction of new buildings. The Decatur council, in regular session last night, adopted an ordinance calling for the election and designating the polling places, which are as follows: Railroad street city hall, Johnston street city hall, store in Malone park, number 1339 Fourth avenue, south, and Hodgins store on East Grant street.

The polling stations follow the same general outline as was used for elections prior to consolidation of the cities, when citizens of Decatur voted at the city hall, and citizens of Albany cast their ballots in the four wards of the city.

The new call for election follows rescinding of an ordinance previously adopted by the Decatur council, before the consolidation, and setting the election date of February 14. Between the time the ordinance was adopted and the date of the election, the cities were merged, the council then taking the position it would be better to have an entirely new call issued, rather than ask the residents of the former city of Albany to go all the way to the Railroad street city hall to cast a ballot. It was pointed out that the law required the polling station to be designated in such elections, the Railroad street city hall had been so designated in the first call.

CRUSADE MISSION TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Special Service For Children Set For
This Afternoon

The Crusade Mission being held at St. John's church, Decatur, will close tonight. Both afternoon and night services have been well attended. Last night the mission spoke on the Christian way of life, stressing the several means of grace which go to make up such a life. He pointed out the importance of Bible study and reading. The fact was deplored that so many families never have family worship. The family altar seem to be classed with the relics of the past.

People were urged to attend the public worship of the church, for their own spiritual good and for the example set for others. He mentioned self-discipline and Christian service as means of grace and ended by laying great stress upon the most important of all means of grace—the Holy Communion of the Lord's Supper. People were urged not to neglect the Lord's Table.

This afternoon at 3:30 p. m. a service will be held for the children, and tonight the Mission will close with the following message:—"Christian Fellowship."

DECATUR COUNCIL
OPPOSES BILL TO EXTEND TERMS

Legislators Asked To Vote Against The Extension

EXCLUSION OF
CITY IS ASKED

If Bill Is Adopted An Amendment Is Sought

Opposition of the Decatur city council to a measure, now in the Alabama legislature, extending the terms of city officials for a period of two years, was expressed in resolutions adopted by the mayor and council, in session last night in the Railroad street city hall.

If the measure should be adopted, the council requests that it be so amended as to exclude municipalities which have extended their corporate limits since officials were elected. This amendment would exclude the consolidated City of Decatur from provisions of the act.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF DECATUR, ALABAMA, That the Council is opposed to the bill now pending in the state Legislature whereby the term of office of all mayors and councilmen of the towns and cities of Alabama, be extended for a period of two years, and we do hereby request and urge our representatives in the Legislature to use all their efforts and influence, to either defeat said bill or to amend it, so it will not apply to the City of Decatur or any other town or city the corporate limits of which have been extended since the last general municipal election.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk of the City of Decatur is hereby directed to forward a copy of the foregoing resolution to Hon. John Patterson and Hon. F. E. Burleson, members of the present Legislature from this County, and that a copy also be sent to Hon. W. H. Smith, Senator from this Senatorial District.

FARM RELIEF BILL
UP TO PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Will Pass Upon Widely
Debated Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill today is squarely up to President Coolidge. Three years from its inception, the measure, with its widely debated equalization fee provision for price stabilization now must be passed upon by the chief executive.

Final action at the capital came last night when the house, by a vote of 214 to 178 approved the bill in exactly the form it passed the senate and sent it to the White House for either enactment into law or flat rejection.

Previously approved by the senate, 47 to 39, or eight votes to the good, the house gave the bill a margin of only 36 votes more needed and chieftains in the McNary-Haugen camp made no effort to deny the contention of opponents that strength, at least in the house, would be lacking to muster the two thirds necessary to pass the bill over a presidential veto.

Sometime today a copy of the measure is expected to be transmitted to the White House. Under the constitution the president has ten days in which to either veto or sign the measure. Should he do neither it would automatically become law.

Final action by congress came last night after nine hours of feverish discussion in the house, during which the bill's supporters, in steam roller fashion, crushed more than 100 attempts to change it.

HOMER HENDRICKS LOST LIFE IN FREIGHT TRAIN ACCIDENT

A mangled body, crushed Thursday afternoon at Hartselle in a freight train accident, has been identified as that of Homer Hendricks, Cullman county youth, who was declared to have been on his way to Tennessee to the home of his parents, they having recently moved to Tennessee from this state.

Young Hendricks, aged 22 years, lived only a short while after the accident, which cost him both legs and an arm. He was injured when he jumped off a northbound freight train to recover his cap. On his second jump for the train he succeeded in getting but one hand on the car ladder, the train moving at a rapid rate of speed as to drag him 30 or forty yards.

Two youths, companions of Hendricks, who had succeeded in boarding the freight and also declared to have lived in the Cullman neighborhood, identified the body. The body is being held at Hartselle, pending the arrival of the dead youth's father. The unfortunate youth is understood to be a relative of Albert Hendricks, employe of the Louisville and Nashville shops at Decatur.

Companions of Hendricks returned to the scene of the accident soon after they learned of his misfortune. The accident occurred Thursday afternoon near 1 o'clock, just north of Hartselle.

ONE FAMILY

To Shreveport
Hospitals

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Thirty-one persons were reported dead and an undetermined number injured today as rescue workers probed into the tornado sections of Louisiana and Mississippi.

The heaviest toll of dead was taken on plantations south of Newellton in Tensas parish, Louisiana, where 14 persons were reported killed and at least two score injured, with prospects of the total fatalities being increased as other neighboring plantations were communicated with. Nine persons died and 18 were badly hurt near Pleasant Hill, Sabine parish, La., and eight were killed and several other injured near Rose Hill, Mississippi.

The storm apparently swept into Louisiana near Shreveport and traveled eastward across the northern sections of the two states. High winds and heavy rains accompanied the storm as it raged eastward with increasing fury, striking near Pleasant Hill before night fall, rescue workers were busy searching through the ruins of dwellings when darkness came. Many of the injured there were taken to hospitals at Shreveport.

Fourteen were killed in the next recurrence of the storm's fury at Newellton, near the Mississippi-Louisiana line, many persons were injured there.

Eight persons died and others were injured as the storm swept across Mississippi with abating fury. The deaths occurred at Rose Hill where seven members of one family were killed and six others injured.

Most of the dead were negroes. One doctor who visited the scene of the storm at Newellton, returned to Tallulah with the statement that he dressed the wounds of 30 persons, the storm struck without warning, he said, and many houses in the section were destroyed.

Four persons were hurt at Leaf, Miss., when the house in which Frazier Mitchell lived was blown down, injuring the man, his wife and a small child.

Property damage was expected to run high. Farmhouses were thought to make up the greater part of this toll. A landslide temporarily interrupted traffic on the Alabama and Vicksburg line at Bovina, several miles east of Vicksburg.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The weather bureau today issued the following warning: Advisory: Northwest storm warnings displayed 11 a. m. Bay St. Louis to Cedar Keys, Fla., disturbance over Mississippi and northern Alabama, moving eastward.

Members of the building committee of the Central Baptist church held a meeting last night, discussing the progress of the work on the $40,000 Sunday school annex. It is believed the building will be ready for use no later than May 1, and possibly sometime during April.

Radio Activity of Ocean Waves Is What Puts Kick In Bathing

By International News Service
LOS ANGELES.—It's not the salt in the ocean but the radium elements that give vitality and stimulation to the bather.

This statement was made here the other day by Dr. C. Everett Field of New York city, eminent authority on radium therapy.

"Take the daily tip if you desire perfect health and plenty of vitality," is the message broadcast by the radium specialist.

"We now know that the radioactivity in the waves as they break to the shore is the great invigorating feature of sea bathing," Dr. Field declared.

The physician predicted that when the public was fully aware of the radium benefits to be procured from sea bathing, more men and women would be found at the seashore.

"With the ocean practically at their back doors, men and women here as well as boys and girls have a grand opportunity of enjoying the advantages of ocean bathing—and when they are acquainted with the radium benefit, sea bathing, now very popular, will become more so," said Dr. Field.

Radium is producing remarkable results in the treatment of cancer and other malignant growths, Dr. Field asserted. "The profession has made wonderful strides in this branch but has also learned of the limitations of radium, which is an important achievement in itself, for its helps us to eliminate and expose the type of man who claims everything for radium."

We do know, however, that radium is from 12 to 15 per cent better than the knife in surgical operations, and that the limit of its usefulness has not been reached."

Oklahoma Astrologer To Advise Legislature About Zodiac Laws

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(INS)—Dr. L. Howell Lewis, Oklahoma City astrologer-poet-painter will keep the Oklahoma legislature advised, through Governor Henry S. Johnston, when the signs of the zodiac favor or frown on the passage of important laws.

In response to the governor's recent message, warning against lobbyists, the Oklahoma legislators have formally adopted the slogan: "Spurn the lobby and study the zodiac." One member suggested that the house guard against the passage of any appropriations "under the sign of the hog."

Governor Johnston has taken to astrology with enthusiasm, and is signing bills in accordance with the desired astrologic omens.

He is not the first governor, however, to heed the star-inspired advice of Dr. Lewis. This astrologer told "Jack" Walton, former governor, at the time Walton was mayor of Oklahoma City, that he was born under the sign of Leo the Lion and predicted that Walton would "rule the state as the Lion does the jungle."

As a result, during Walton's term as mayor the Oklahoma City police wore shields in the shape of lions' heads.

While Walton was governor, a large space in the capitol was set aside for Dr. Lewis' paintings, which included his conception of terrible carnage on the western front in the World war, done in heroic proportions. When M. E. Trapp succeeded Walton, on the latter's impeachment and removal, the Lewis collection was ordered removed by the board of public affairs.

-.GOLDEN ROADS.-

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Gay Moore and her cousin, Christine Noe, are employed in the Wall Street House of Johnstone Baird, Gay as a typist and Christine as telephone operator. Christine is in love with Roger Pennington, called Penny by his intimates, whose wealth and social position appeal to her love. Stanley Baird is in love with Gay. Kay returns his love, but knowing of the friendship existing between Johnstone Baird and a woman known as the "Lilac Lady" fears that Stanley will inherit his father's vices and grows doubtful of his love for her. Christine encourages the attentions of Ivor Barclay to arouse Penny's jealousy. She goes to a roadhouse of doubtful reputation with Barclay, but Gay overhearing the plan, enlists the aid of Stanley and goes after Christine. Christine, humiliated, is taken home. Gay while looking for Christine inadvertently opens the door of a private room in the roadhouse and discovers Johnstone Baird and the "Lilac Lady" dining alone. She fears Mr. Baird will misunderstand her own presence at so questionable a resort, and wonders what the consequences will be to Stanley and herself. Gay receives a note from Stanley's mother inviting her to tea. She goes and the tea ends in a scene between Johnstone Baird and Gay, in which he accuses her of marrying Stan for his money. Gay tells him she wouldn't marry Stan. However, Stan convinces her of his love, leaves home and takes a position as automobile mechanic. She hears nothing from him until Christmas. Suddenly Penny tells Gay that Stan is ill. She goes to him in the hospital. Stan's family raise a row and disown him when they discover he has been working in such a humble position. However, Gay and Stan make plans for their wedding, which takes place in February, and after a short honeymoon, they return to the city, as Stan wants to get back to work as quickly as possible.

Gay and Stan start housekeeping in a tiny, walk-up apartment, furnished partly on the installment plan and partly with furniture that Jaime and Mary give them. Meanwhile Christine fails to understand the ambition that is driving Penny to make good in his position and jealously lays the blame on Peggy Baird.

CHAPTER 26

She tried all her wiles on him; captured him again and again—for a little time.

But he always slipped from her, back to what she thought was the influence of Peggy Baird.

Christine knew that Penny was terrifically attracted to her—when she had his attention. She resorted to all sorts of unreasonable tricks for rousing him.

She would change from capricious daring to disdain; from melting tenderness to indifference. All so rapidly that he was kept bewildered, uncertain, rather resentful. They would quarrel furiously. And make up with mutual self-reproach, word of love.

Yet Penny never said the definite thing that would have given her a feeling of sureness. Even in his moments of high emotion it seemed to her he remained aloof.

She renewed her friendship with Ivor Barclay and flaunted it before him.

"But he's an awful bounder," Penny would protest, the droll humor wiped from his face. "He's letting you in for trouble, Chris. Wife's a little mad they say—plenty of reason he's given her. Follows him around waiting to start something. No telling what she'd do to you."

"You wouldn't care much?" "Why say such a thing? You know I'd care—" Swiftly the absent look that so enraged her would come into his eyes. "Smokes! Forget you later, Chrissy."

There came an afternoon when a reckless spirit took possession of her. They had been sweetly friendly for a week—too friendly, she thought.

Love as she understood it was exultation—sweeping, soaring thing—not tempered affection that talked of much and avoided the future.

They'd made a tentative engagement. Dinner somewhere and a long drive—if he could finish what he was doing in time.

All afternoon she watched him, bending over his desk. He'd taken off his coat; there was an ink-stain on his cheek; his hair was rumpled.

"He's completely forgotten me. He sticks at his work because he wants to make a hit with Baird. Making himself solid for Peggy's sake."

Dark thoughts out of shut-up depths of her heart. They kindled fires. She felt rebellious, full of strange, lawless impulses.

The office emptied slowly; Penny worked on, nose almost touching the page before him.

She waited a while, shrugged, put on her wraps, strolled over. "Hello, slave!"

He raised his head with the dazed look of one abruptly awakened from sleep. Then he caught her smile, the lure of the flushed, beautiful face.

"Gosh-a-goodness, I'd forgotten the time! Sit down a second, will you lovely? Finished in a couple of shakes—"

"Just meant to say 'night,' Pen. I thought it'd be like this—you all ried up. Well—I made a date. I'm that popular, you see—a date a minute. Promised to go down to Stacia's."

She held all his thought now and thrilled to his sudden anger. "Made a date? Good Lord—why? Could have waited a minute, couldn't you?"

"I'm always waiting on you, Mr. Man. Well—'nother time—" She gave him a bright, mocking glance and turned; he sprang up, caught her by the shoulder, whirled her around.

"Here, Chris! What do you mean? You're going to Stacia's—what for?"

"For a good time." She laughed, drew her lips together. "Always have it there. You ought to know." "So you'll not be alone! Barclay I suppose—you're meeting Barclay—is that it?" His grip tightened; he shook her roughly. "Why don't you answer? Listen; if it's Barclay—"

She laughed again, wildly; his jealousy was like wine in her veins. She fung about, threw her arms around his neck held him in startled embrace—dashed away, still laughing.

She had no intention of meeting Barclay. She was going to visit Stacia through sheer boredom. She wanted someone to talk to; someone whose unleashed ideas would make her own seem justified.

They were spending a long, rather dreary evening when Penny came. He pounded the door, kicked it, burst in bowling Stacia aside.

Then he stood before Christine, unsteadily, fists doubled. "Where's he? Knock his block off! Where's he hiding, I say?"

"Penny you're drunk!" They tried to calm him; Stacia set about making coffee.

"Sure—drunk. Proud of it. Where's he?"

"Oh, take him around," Stacia called. "Show him there's no one here. For Pete's sake snap out of it. Here—drink this and forget it. You two make me sick. Crazy about each other and no sense—Listen; there's a party downstairs and I'm going. Think you can stand it if I leave you alone? All right then—"

They didn't say much. Scalding black coffee had cleared Penny's brain; they drifted together, shocked and remorseful, settled in a corner of a davenport.

"Drove me wild—thinking you down here with someone else."

"I know, Pen darling. Well—" Much later; "Chris, you're so changeable; so destructive. You torment me so."

"I'm not and I don't, Pen! Truly, truly!"

"Yes. Consuming fire—"

When Stacia came in at daylight they still were sitting there. Christine's head was on his shoulder; his cheek lay against her dark hair. They were asleep.

General theme for this week: Living and Working Together in the Church.

Reading for today: Matthew 18:15-20. Theme: Promoting Harmony in the Church.

The natural manner of reacting to injury from another is by retaliation; "an eye for an eye." But the way of Christ is to speak frankly but without bitterness to him who has caused the trouble, giving him opportunity to make amends. If he will not be thus influenced, the persuasion of others may be employed. If this too is ineffective, the church may make its corporate appeal to him. If this fails it makes apparent his own failure as a Christian, and justifies the church in withdrawing the privileges of fellowship.

In all this there is no suggestion of force—except that of morality and right. How different this is from the law of the jungle which prevails among so many individuals and nations. Candor and fairness are needed everywhere; needed in society and needed in the church. "How good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Oxford Leaps In Modern Swirl By Adopting Dance

By International News Service. OXFORD, Eng.—Oxford, oldest and most conservative of English universities, has taken a sudden leap into modernity. It has formed a dance club, and shortly the first dance for undergrads of both sexes will be held with full sanction of the powers that be.

Hitherto the rules of the University have strictly prohibited undergrads from attending dances in a public place, and students found so doing have been severely reprimanded.

For some time men and women students complained that the segregation of the sexes was being carried too far, and in answer to this a number of the younger masters and their wives have now formed the dance club as an experiment. Every dance will be rigidly chaperoned, however.

Rescue operations were carried on at a cost of more than $500.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue To Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunate who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size more economical.

TODAY 12 Years Ago
From The Daily of February 18, 1915.

Mrs. Henry Zeitler of Mooresville was here today, the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. G. Cortner.

Mrs. W. J. Troy returned today from Huntsville.

W. A. McCalla and D. W. Speake, Jr., left this morning for Danville, where the latter will spend the remainder of the summer.

Miss Julia Neville of Trinity is the guest of Miss Lottie Wilkinson.

The meeting of the Embroidery club with Mrs. R. L. Maury has been postponed until Saturday afternoon.

Another unpopular champion is the fellow who always wins the fumbling contest when the dinner check is due.

The baseball committee, in not utilizing the past few days, overlooked some mighty fine days on which to dispose of baseball tickets.

Rev. Billy Sunday describes Atlanta as America's most religious city. Despite the bathtub episode, we assume.

Any woman could win for president who would run on a platform of home cooking in every American home.

Arthur Brisbane tells of being offered $12,000 a year some years ago and comments that "$12,000 was good pay in those days." After all they must have been good old days.

Do the best you can when called upon to aid your city, your church, your friends, then someone can tell the truth about you when you pass on to another world.

No, happiness doesn't depend upon the amount of money you have in the bank, but rather upon the amount you are willing to spend for the benefit of the family.

People who have lived in Decatur all their lives are still pleased to live here. People who have only lived here for three months or less declare their allegiance, there is a reason. Everybody likes an up and going city.

OUR WASHINGTON PLAYHOUSE CALLED CONGRESS.

Rude awakening again for Shoals people, promises, multitudes of promises, hopes, and then some several prize fights in our Washington playhouse called Congress. That menagerie of long bearded wonders even has forgotten that it is meeting in Washington, one might guess they are gathering in Madison Square, under contract with Tex Rickard.

Congress has again succeeded in making itself a laughing stock, but not without taking the people of Muscle Shoals advocacy in on the little one act skit called "Ridicule." The people of the Muscle Shoals area have again been placed in the light of the ridiculous by a group of men who are supposed to tend to the affairs of the people.

After a stormy session on Tuesday and Wednesday, Congress turned Thursday to burlesque. Presenting boxing gloves and funny resolutions when those wonders who apparently can button their cars behind, should have been tending to the people's business.

Some weeks ago the Tri-Cities Daily explained to the Decatur Daily that there would be folly in giving up a heritage. That advice was given after the newspaper had offered that the people of the Shoals district should go ahead with their own building plans, efforts to gain new industries, regardless of the position that Congress assumed. The Tri-City paper was not taking issue, but that newspaper believed more strongly in Congressional business sense than did The Daily.

Today the condition looks worse than for several years so far as Muscle Shoals legislation is concerned. How far have we progressed with our own building plans.

People of Decatur waited more than a hundred years before they started building on their own hook. In the last three years the city has made strides, it is because we have tired of waiting on a pot at the end of the rainbow, refusing to believe that anything good is coming this way unless people of Decatur get out and get after it with their own effort and their own money.

The amount of civic enthusiasm, Shoals or no Shoals, will finally decide Decatur's greatness. Naturally we should like to have the Shoals controversy ended, of course we should like to have something akin to common sense emanate from congressional brains, but inasmuch as such events seem highly improbable, why we have tired of waiting, we have begun our own plans for constructing a city of 50,000 people and other cities in the Valley know that Decatur is moving rapidly toward that goal.

MORE TALK ABOUT THE VALUE OF VOTES.

Madison county turned in something more than $5,200 this year for poll tax receipts, little more than was turned in in 1926 by Morgan county. Madison showed a slight decrease.

Again we find that Morgan's strength is paramount in this section of the state.

People we have the strength in the northern section of the Valley, we must not fail to use that strength, not to the detriment of neighboring counties of course, but to the benefit of Morgan county first, other Valley counties secondly. We hold a ballot strength of near eight thousand votes, that should be worth something to Morgan county and the Tennessee Valley. Do you not believe that it is so?

THREE PROJECTS OF JUNIOR CHAMBER CALL FOR MONEY.

Three projects—$18,000. It costs money to grow and keep growing doesn't it?

Three projects—The Morgan County Canning Factory $10,000—The Decatur Curb Market $1,000—The Minneapolis baseball club guarantee and the expenses of visiting teams $7,000. That's an early start for an early spring, calculated to wake people a little earlier than usual this year, bound to bring only good results for Morgan county and Decatur.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce plays a major role in the three projects, major role insofar as the organization and working end of the projects are concerned, when you begin to consider the money end, then again it falls on the shoulders of the older citizenship as it always has.

Speaking of the canning factory project, which will keep thousands of dollars in Morgan county for Morgan counts, to give an insight into the minds and the progressive feelings among Decatur business men. Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce canning plant committee called a brief meeting a few days ago for the purpose of perfecting organization. In less than thirty minutes after the usual "good mornings" had been said, a strong directorate of eight business men, subscription to stock amounting to $1,000 and the incorporation papers in process of preparation had been perfected. Those business men believed that strongly in the canning factory, they were willing to take a chance with their good names and their money, they were willing to promote the ideas of that young body of business men who have not as yet earned their spurs in the financial world, but who are willing to learn at their own expense, in any sort of proposal which promises benefit to the county and city. The canning plant committee is going to handle the sale of stock and will make calls upon business people, as well as numerous individuals who are interested in developing Morgan county for Morgan counts.

The Decatur curb market, much has been said heretofore concerning the curb market, which will open on March 5th. Funds must be had for building a suitable place for farmers and farm wives to sell their products to local people, those funds will not take the form of a percentage paying investment, those funds will be in the form of a straight contribution, a Decatur contribution to Morgan county, actually aiding the farmer to erase his financial problem with something more than suggestion. Approximately $1,000 is going to be needed to finance the curb market idea, after the initial cost the market will finance itself. Once the Morgan county farmer learns the value of the market from a financial standpoint he will come here with his product, once the Decatur housewife learns that she can buy the freshest Morgan county products off the curb, she will go to that market, she will buy at that market. Her money goes to the farmer, the farmer's money in nine of ten cases will go to the merchant in the city where the farmer is obtaining his financial aid.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce members and other designated authorities will again call upon business people and individuals seeking the necessary sum for launching the curb market. The local people always have to pay, progress is costly, but the dividends always amount to more than the investment in the long run.

Financing the six weeks stay of the Minneapolis baseball club, "our club," is going to cost approximately $7,000, again the burden falls upon local people. That is the spending of the bulk of that money must be done by local people. There is really no burden attached to the raising of that $7,000, everybody is going to want to attend the baseball games played by our adopted club, we are happy that the Minneapolis team is our own, though only for a brief period of time. These tickets must be sold, sold as soon as possible and the Junior Chamber of Commerce and business interests are going to sell those tickets, appealing to the patriotic note which rests in the heart of every baseball fan.

In bringing the Minneapolis club to this city a project has been accomplished to which every other city cannot boast. Few in fact ever have the pleasure of claiming a big league team as their own, it is only another sign of the willingness of business men to direct the way after the Junior Chamber of Commerce has had the civic energy to get the plan started. Among our business legions there are a few who have not as yet received the new civic spirit, but it is not worthwhile to speak of those straggling few, the other class more than makes up for any slowness on the part of a handful. The energetic type will go on in building for the city of Decatur and Morgan county, the other class will continue to clutch at the extra dollars coming in from the efforts of those who think in terms of something other than dollars.

These three projects are large to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, an organization which has functioned for a year and a half without finance, but not so large that the membership is not willing to get out and fight the fight that will mean success.

People of Decatur, of Morgan, of Limestone, of Lawrence counties are going to aid in all these projects, naturally our home county and home city will do most of the aiding, but with such aid there is little chance for any failure.

Get into line with the early bird in the early spring, let us put these three projects across to success. We have been successful in other things, there is no reason for marring a perfect record.

Limestone county is beginning to talk of a curb market, the Daily hopes that the venture will be equally successful for the Limestone folk. What cannot be sold on the Athens curb will find its way to buyers across the Decatur curb.

So far as is known no one has taken issue with the Dothan Eagle regarding the version that paper takes of Genesis. Every afternoon the Eagle prints on its front page: "For I heard them say, let us go to Dothan."—Genesis 37:17. That's fine, and may we suggest that they come by way of Decatur on their way down to the sunny southern limit of the good state?

HIS OWN TEMPEST MAKES

Today?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

LADIES, you do not suspect it, but you are changing your feet to hoofs. The president of the Illinois Chiropodists association can prove it.

You raise your own heel on a long narrow artificial heel. Point your foot downward, putting the weight which ought to rest on the flat foot, all on the toes.

THE HORSE once had five toes, but wound up with one hoof for each foot.

What women are doing now may be part of nature's eternal plan, killing off the little toe to begin with and then gradually eliminating the others.

The process certainly is not beautiful.

IN THE ancient city of Ur, archeologists have found women's vanity cases, used 5,000 years ago. That isn't very far back. You may be sure that 100,000 years ago, women and men, too, were smearing red earth on their cheeks putting fat on their hair, and otherwise beautifying themselves. The process seem ridiculous, but the result is a race much more beautiful than that of 5,000 years ago.

OTTO H. KAHN has rendered a service to New York, to music and to the public generally by putting through his plan for a new metropolitan opera house at Fifty-seventh street and Eighth avenue.

It gives wise investors, by the way, a good opportunity.

The new opera will have thirty-two boxes, in which large diamonds and shining pearls can be displayed as nowhere else.

You can buy one of those boxes if the directors will let you for $145,000.

Then you own one-thirty-second part of the whole opera, subject to a mortgage.

You will have your box for Monday. The fashionable night, and can earn a fine return on your money, renting it the other nights—if the directors will let you rent it.

They are particular, for there are thirty-two boxes in the whole opera house, which means that those sitting there will be an earthly elect.

THE important thing is that Mr. Kahn has arranged for those that like music, as well as for those that wear diamonds. There will be good, comfortable seats, with a perfect view of the stage, as cheap as $1.50 each. Those that will sing on that stage, a few years hence, will have a era now.

THE crime wave problem is 90 per cent a problem of wayward youth. You read today of a girl of eighteen and a boy of seventeen, asking a storekeeper to change a $20 bill at 7:30 in the morning and holding the man up with guns after he had opened the safe to get change. The girl kept the storekeeper covered with her gun while the boy took $169 from the safe. Then they left. That is "flaming youth" with a vengeance.

IN ADDITION to holding up others and occasionally killing storekeepers, American youth shows a strange inclination to mired. It is believed that deep respect for the British king and suicide.

Thomas J. O'Donnell, eighteen years old student in a Long Island high school, killed himself saying he did not want to burden his mother.

Young O'Donnell is the tenth young man to commit suicide within a few weeks. One youthful suicide said he was "disillusioned." Another killed himself to test his theory on immortality.

THE Baldwin Locomotive company reveals the interesting fact that its net profits, in a year, have increased from $1,096,563 to $5,883,907.

A year ago, the common stock earned 98 cents a share. This year it earned $22.42 a share. Wall Street bears were recently selling that stock short. Can you imagine how they feel?

KING GEORGE has sent a silver alms dish, through British Ambassador Howard to the new Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York. Last Sunday the royal dish was used for the first time, while 2,000 worshippers ad-reverence for his silver dish will greatly increase the prosperity of the cathedral.

Those that ordinarily would put a dollar in the plate will say to themselves, "It is the king's plate. I must do my best," and put in $10.

HERBERT N. CASSON, a thoughtful observer, says Britain is delighted with the frightfully costly coal strike. It was expensive but it has ended revolutionary trade unionism. Great Britain thinks so, at least.

REVOLUTIONARY trade unionism would not have gone far in Great Britain, anyhow. The British are not revolutionary, it isn't their nature.

Great Britain, according to Casson is doing well, breaking all European building records, by putting up 270,000 houses in the last two years, and in 1926 the turnover in London's clearing house was almost two hundred billions of dollars.

Britain has digested her return to the gold standard and can compete with Germany abroad.

The Cantonese, determined to rule China, and get rid of foreigners, have imitated Mexico by forbidding religion in schools. As a result twelve Episcopal mission schools in the Hankow area will close indefinitely. The Cantonese proposes to replace religious exercises with patriotic rites.

YOU may say that this country long ago set the example by eliminating religious exercises from the public school. But the idea here was different. We didn't want to get rid of religion, we simply refrained from favoring any particular religion.

A FRENCH engineer has invented an apparatus to blow up trenches and cause terrific fires without the use of wires or of wireles.

Peaceful Americans who think it is a good idea to remain unprepared, will note that Europe is going ahead with war preparations, and new killing machinery, more energetically than ever before in history.

Blue Devils Take Games On Trip

Falkville's troupe of Blue Devils took a pair of games this week, stopping the Deahler and Athens Aggie teams on Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

In the Deahler game the Blue Devils were held to a closer count than on the occasion of the first meeting of the teams, Falkville winning 39-15.

The Blue Devils had a close call at Athens, gathering a 38-37 win in an offensive drive by both quintets.

Falkville returns to home stamping grounds today, preparing to play Hartselle and Cullman in winding up the season before entering the district tourney at Boaz.

Team Unable To Get Into Tourney

Falkville Blue Devils made an unsuccessful attempt to get into the Cotton States tourney, opened today, although Coach Garrison fired telegrams to Auburn asking that his team be entered.

The Falkville team was the only team in this section of the state which was given an invitation to enter the tourney. The team has not been defeated this year.

Auburn Spoils Record 39-35

The Auburn Tiger spoiled a perfectly appointed record last evening when the Tiger went against the Commodore up in Nashville. Vandy came back in the last half to score 25 points, sweeping aside the Auburn defense and taking a four-point lead which the Tiger could not erase. Auburn was doomed to win easily. Vandy led at the final 39-35.

The man who invented near beer was a poor judge of distance.

"Patrick, you told me you needed the alcohol to clean the windows with and here I find you drinking it."

"Faith, mum, it's a-drinking it and breathing it on the glass o' in a-doing."

The chicken crossed the road because there was a cake-eater on the other side.

"I'm a very busy man, sir. What is your proposition?"

"I want to make you rich."

HARMONY

Well, I've heard my share o' music, An, it's stirred my heart so deep

That I sometimes dream o' angels Twangin' harps while I'm asleep.

I can sit an' listen, quiet, For a month or two at least, To a male quartet awinin', With their tonsils pointin' east.

An' a band that gits to blarin', On a platform or the street, Is a plumb enticin' matter To the bottoms o' my feet.

When a pretty girl's a-singin' From a throat that's like a wren's— Well, I kind o' git to sniffin', An' I want to kiss my frien'.

But from all the kinds o' music That appeal to me at all, I'll jest choose a pack o' beagles Chasin' rabbits in the fall.

Our idea of an optimist is a man who takes a frying pan on a fishing trip.

A local person wants to know, and courts an answer to this question: Why does the telephone or the door bell ring when you are in the bath tub in the house alone?

Head-Writer: "Here's a dispatch that says Irvin S. Cobb is suffering from a severe corn. How shall I head it?"

Editor: "Just write 'Corn on Cobb.'" (Cobb's corns were in his shoes.)

A girl often increases a man's happiness by just one word. Occasionally it is "yes," but more frequently it is "no."

Said he, "I love your eyes of blue, Oh, kindly be my queen." That might have been a lovely speech, Except, her eyes were green.

ALBANY HI TO PLAY TONIGHT

Morgan County Hi Here For Pair Of Battles

Albany Hi school is back home tonight, meeting the Morgan county Hi eagers. The games are called for seven o'clock at the Albany Hi gymnasium with the girls quintet playing the first game. The boys game will follow immediately at the close of the first tilt.

Hi students were astir today to have the largest crowd of the season to witness the pair of battles. Coaches did not announce their line-ups for the game, last minute changes probably taking place before the teams go on the floor to night.

HUMPHREY TO BUILD

Philip Humphrey announced today that construction will be started soon on a brick bungalow on Grant street, between the Lee and Blackwell homes. Mr. Humphrey purchased the property through Penney & Whitman.

Faculty Halts Annual Staff

Faculty members and graduates of Albany Hi school last night managed to stop the Annual staff of the school in a whirlwind flash which brought victory out of an apparent defeat. The game, played before a good-sized crowd of students, ended 14-13.

Folks who witnessed the fracas declared it one of the fastest seen on the court this year.

At the half the Annualites led the teachers by a count of 5-3 they had carried honors in the first period by throwing a single four, maintaining a lead of 1-0.

On the third period the Annualites swept upward to a commanding lead and were apparently safe. The teachers came back with a final burst of speed in the final quarter, ringing five pointers in a single minute. As the time keeper was calling to the referee that the fracas was ended, Greenhill, school superintendent tossed the final points through the wicker.

The line-ups:

Teachers	Annual
Greenhill 4	Sartor 4
Johnson 4	Forward
Hagerman 4	Forward
Shelton 2	Center
Alford	Guard

Blevins Breaks Finger; Devils Use Four Men

A Falkville Forward Gets Hand Hurt At Tuscumbia

Just one of those things which happens once in a lifetime, a team winning a basketball game with four men against five strong opponents.

Blevins, star member of the Falkville Blue Devils' cage squad, sustained a broken finger in the Deshler game at Tuscumbia Wednesday night and consequently was unable to enter the Aggie game at Athens on Thursday afternoon.

Falkville took just five men and a coach to Tuscumbia. The unexpected developed, one of the five players was injured.

Petty, Hill, Briscoe and Wade played the Athens Aggies and managed to get away with a single point advantage, gathering a victory by a 38-37 count, the closest call the Falkville lads have had this year.

How Doctors Treat Colds And Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of gripe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger. Your Income Tax

No. 29

Several salient facts are to be remembered by taxpayers in claiming deductions for taxes. Taxes on personal property and real estate, whether business or residential, are deductible. So-called taxes assessed against local benefits, such as street paving or drainage, which tend to increase the value of the property assessed are not deductible since they are considered as constituting the cost of a permanent improvement.

The Federal income tax may not be deducted. However, income taxes imposed upon the income of individuals by States may be deducted by an individual on his Federal income tax return.

The Federal estate tax is deductible from the gross income of the estate of a decedent in process of administration in ascertaining net income of the estate subject to the tax.

Taxes are deductible as such only by the persons upon whom they are imposed. Thus, the excise taxes imposed upon the sales by manufacturer of automobile chassis and bodies and motorcycles are not deductible by the purchaser, even though such taxes are billed to him as separate items.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Import or tariff duties paid in the operation of a business are deductible as taxes, provided they are not added to or made a part of the expenses of the business or the cost of the merchandise with respect to which they are paid.

Admission taxes are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid during the year. Guesswork will not be accepted. Under the revenue act of 1926 the admission tax applies only to admissions in excess of 75 cents, while under the 1924 act is applied to admissions in excess of 50 cents.
